JAMMED ROADWAYS

Parking around Mary's Help Hospital in Daly City is causing concern among hospital and city officials. Daly City has taken over control of streets and parking lots adjacent to the hospital and will soon began handing out illegal parking tags.

Color Blind Motorists at Hospital

Auto Crackdown

Motorists who have been suffering from "color blindness" and have failed to heed the red curb markings around Mary's Help Hospital in Daly City will soon be cured, police promise.

Citations for parking in red zones around the hospital soon will be given out.

The hospital approaches are so jammed with illegally parked cars that firefighters responding to a recent call could not get within 30 feet of the hospital building, a fire official complained.

Hospital officials, alarmed over the situation, asked the city for help.

But the city was helpless to do anything about the cars because they were parked on private property.

The hospital could have the cars towed away, but the sheer number of violators made even this drastic move impractical, hospital authorities said.

Furthermore, the hospital didn't need all that ill will, a hospital spokesman told the City Council recently.

In what was described as "the interests of public safety," the City of Daly City took over the privately-owned roads and adjacent parking lots owned by the hospital.

During an unannounced "grace period," police will hand out warnings.

Parking tags, some as high as $25, will be stuck on cars in the next few days, police said.

"There will have to be some agonizing reappraisal of parking habits around the hospital," one hospital spokesman said.

Jeff High Teacher Tours 60 Experiential Programs in U.S.

By JANET PARKER

More community involvement in an outdoor experience program at Jefferson High School is expected this year, according to the program's instructor.

Reno Taini, recently returned from a one-year sabbatical, plans the 30 students in his Community Environmental Education or "Wilderness Program" to be in touch with more outside agencies and organizations this fall.

Taini visited more than 60 schools across the United States during his sabbatical specifically to obtain ideas and information for his own program.

Special programs for high school students in "learning by doing" are in nearly every state he said.

The Jefferson High program began in 1967, and since then Serramonte High School has adopted a similar program.

Taini said, however, there's much more that needs to be done to make the Jefferson program a better learning experience.

"It's all our responsibility," said Taini, a Jefferson teacher for nine years.

He's already called each of the 30 students in the class and talked to 10 parents.

The students will spend the first two weeks of the fall semester on a backpacking trek through Stanislaus National Forest.

Reno Taini

The major thrust of the semester's activities this year, Taini said, will be working with the area Red Cross.

Students will form squads, he said, to aid needy individuals throughout the Daly City region.

Taini said the major idea which developed from his cross-country tour was the need for more community involvement in the program.

He foresees students in "creative opportunities" for the aged, crippled and blind.

Students hopefully will work through county agencies in assisting the needy.

He also hopes to connect his program with elementary schools. One idea is to have his own students visit the elementary schools to talk about a Colma farm the high school students cultivate. The younger children could later visit the farm on a field trip.

"I want to connect them to agencies in the outer world," Taini said.

The program, he said, "complements the traditional classroom work by locating students in projects where they actually 'test drive' their years of accumulated education.

"There are so few opportunities available to teenagers where they can have positive character-forming experiences . . . where they can move with dignity, success and a sense of adventure from adolescence to adulthood," he said.

"The majority of young people grow up with urges to experience the pride to belonging, of achievement, of having earned and gaine respect. Programs that claim a teen-ager's human resources . . . can positively satisfy these urges," he said.

The program itself is in three phases — urban, independent study and environmental research, and a farming or life science center phase.

He hopes the program will expand to Terra Nvoa and Oceana High Schools in Pacifica soon.

Taini said parents seem to be accepting the program more.

"It's not an outrageous program, he insisted.

He spent three months of his sabbatical in a totally different educational environment — on the mountains of Nepal.

"I wanted three months to really give myself an experience," Taini said. So, he researched and learned he could pay his way throuh Nepal working with "New Era," a group of ex-Peace Corps volunteers contracted by the Nepal government to explore the tiny country's educational needs.

The country initiated public education just last year.

It is like a country with one foot in the 12th century and one in the 20th, the teacher said. Isolation caused by the highest mountains in the world has produced this situation, he said.

Taini also spent time during his travels writing a book on experimental education of "learning by doing." The book, "The Freedom to Do," deals with teahcing techniques that encourage students to discover tools and attitudes allowing them to survive and participate in the face of discouragement, he said.

The major need in education, Taini said, is for positive and olid images of the future.

Infant's Parents Sought

A search is underway today for the parents of an infant girl whose body was found stuffed in a plastic garbage bag and buried under a trash recepticle at Holy Cross Cemetery on Aug. 22.

The child, believed buried about six months ago, wore a tag simply reading "Rodrigues," according to Colma Police chief Jim Dorris.

There were two tags on the child — one on the foot and another plastic tag on the right arm.

The arm tag could not be read, Dorris said.

Technicians at the San Mateo County Crime Lab had been working on the case with Dorris and authorities at Kaiser Hospital in South San Francisco since the body of the two week old baby was found.

Workmen at Holy Cross were digging new foundations for the cemetery's trash containers when they found the badly decomposed body.

The whereabouts of the parents, or why they disposed of the child, remains a mystery, Dorris said.

The chief said there have been no reports of a missing baby matching the description of the dead infant filed in recent months.

Colma Crash Injures Three

Three persons were injured, none seriously, in a weekend auto accident at the corner of El Camino Real and Serramonte Boulevard., Colma.

Treated and released at Mary's Help Hospital for a variety of minor injuries following the Saturday afternoon accident were George F. Lillis, 79, and his wife, Helen, 73, of San Francisco.

The driver of the other car, Emile Garelli, 60, of 113 Vail St., Daly City, refused treatment for an injured knee, according to police.

No Incumbents File for Police District Re-election

Neither of the two incumbents in the Broadmoor Police District election filed for re-election by the Friday deadline.

Vince Murphy, whose term expires in 1977, and Louis Manis whose term expires in 1979, did not seek return to their posts.

Instead, one man, Peter H. McMillan will run in the November election for Murphy's seat.

Three persons will vie for Manis' post.

Those seeking Manis' chair are Dean O. Davenport, J. Wayne Johnson, and Roswell N. Hilton.

The term expires on Nov. 30, 1979.

There are two seats open in the Colma Fire District: Leslie V. Balestra seeks re-election.

Theodore C. Kirschner and Kenneth W. Lowe seek election.

No candidates filed for the two seats up for grabs in the Guadalupe Valley Municipal Improvement District (Brisbane).

In the dimond Public Utility District, incumbents McMalone Count and Swante Johnson filed for re-election.

Dolwig Jury Begins Trial Deliberation

The jury was expected to begin deliberation Tuesday in the conspiracy - fraud trial of former state senator Richard Dolwig and six other men accused of being officials of a dummy off-shore loan company known as "Eurovest."

Special government prosecutor Robert Breakstone accused Eurovest officials of setting up developers seeking large loans by making them pay cash fees for letters of credit which allegedly were never delivered.

Oakland developer M. Paul Heck testified he was bilked out of some $60,000 in cash, and another $23,000 in expenses, in his dealings with Eurovest.

There were 22 persons who testified during the four week trial before U.S. Judge Samuel Conti in San Francisco.

Dolwig allegedly was the escrow agent for Eurovest.

Church Guests

Rabbi Herbert Morris, spiritual leader of Congregation Beth Israel-Judea, Brotherhood Way, San Francisco, has invited four congregants to share the pulpit on the first day of Rosh Hashanah at services Sept. 6.

Howard Friedman, student body president of Serramonte High School, Daly City, 1974-75; Quentin Kopp, San Francisco, supervisor and member of the Beth Israel-Judea Board of Trustees; Sue Marcus, a June garduate of U.C. Berkeley, soon to be enrolled at the St. Luke's School of Nursing; and Mrs. Stanley (Carolyn) Wiener, presently at work on her doctorate in Sociology at the U.C. Medical Center.

These individuals will present their views on "Who and What Is the American Jew Today?"

Tax Rates Drop in 16 Areas

General fund tax rates will increase in eight school districts of San Mateo County but will decrease in 16 others according to an analysis completed this week for the coming year by the County Superintendent of Schools office.

Taxes will go up in the Bayshore, Brisbane, Laguna Salada Union and Ravenswood city elementary school districts, in the Jefferson and San Mateo Union High School Districts, and in the Cabrillo and South San Francisco unified districts, it was reported.

Decreases in the general fund tax rates are expected in the San Mateo Community College District and in 15 elementary and high school districts.

The other districts in which decrease are expected are Belmont, Burlingame, Hillsborough, Jefferson, Las Lomitas, Menlo Park, Millbrae, Portola Valley, Redwood City, San Bruno Park, Sen Carlos, San Mateo City and Woodside elementary districts, and in Sequoia Union High School and La Honda-Pescadero unified school districts.

Dr. Russell Kent, superintendent of schools, said that the figures were compiled after a study of budgets, tax rates, and assessed valuations as they now stand and reviewed by his office. Only slight modification, if any, is expected.

Largest tax rate increase is expected to be at the Bayshore elementary school district, where a $1.92 rate will rise more than 23 cents to $2.16 per hundred dollars of assessed valuation.

Largest decrease in tax rate will occur at the La Honda-Pescadero Unified District, which is expected to drop $1.28-plus from an existing $5.63 tax rate to $4.34.

Castro Pleads Not Guilty

Michael Phillip Castro, 27, accused of the decapitation slaying of his 53-year-old father in Pacifica Monday, pleaded not guilty to the charges in Municipal Judge James O. Miller's court Friday.

Preliminary hearing was set for Sept. 15 at 9:30 a.m.

Castro is being held in the Redwood City jail in lieu of $150,000 bail.

His attorney, Steven C. Grier, of Burlingame, said it was "very unlikely" Castro would be able to raise the bail.

The accused slayer is charged with decapitating his father, a bakery worker, during an argument at the family's Hermosa Street, Pacifica home last Monday about 7:30 a.m.

Police said Castro allegedly walked out of the house with the severed head and threw it into the street.

Carnival Hand Stabbed in DC

A 30-year-old carnival worker is reported to be in fair condition today at Mary's Help Hospital in Daly City following surgery for a stab wound.

According to police reports, Tom Pacheo, of Sonoma was helping pack up the midway at the Carnival Times, Inc., show, held for the past week in the parking lot of Westlake Shopping Center in Daly City, when an altercation broke out between himself and several youths.

Police said one of the youths pulled out a knife and plunged in it into Pacheco's abdomen.

He was rushed to the nearby hospital at about midnight and underwent surgery.

Arrested and charged with assault with a deadly weapon was Felipe Ibparra, 18, of San Francisco.

Two other youths — Graciano Dacumos, 19, of 39 Fairfax Street, South San Francisco, and Jeffrey Alvarez, 19, of San Francisco — were arrested and charged with assault and battery and disturbing the peace.

WORKING DAILY

Business must be booming at the Serramonte Shopping Center despite the rumored recession hitting the nation. Workmen have been laboring daily for the past two weeks on expansion of the center's west parking lot. It was hoped the expanded parking area will provide space for an additional 150-200 cars. Construction is being done by Suburban Realty Company, according to center manager James Sargen.

SSF Council Considers Electing Its Mayor

"At any general municipal election, or at a special election held for that purpose, the City Council may submit to the electors the question of whether the mayor shall serve a two-year or four-year term."

This part of section 34900 of the Government Code is getting close scrutiny in South San Francisco, after Councilman Leo Padreddii asked the staff to check the feasibility of the Industrial City having one of its councilmen being an elected mayor.

While Padreddii posed the question — and even indicated he would run for the position if it in fact were open — it is fellow Councilman Terry Mirri who appeared the most excited about this change in that city's government.

And as much in favor of the possibility as Mirri is, at least two others on the council — Warren Steinkamp and Frank Mammini — are opposed to it. Present mayor, Dick Battaglia, has been on vacation and not available for comment on the issue. Both Steinkamp and Mammini, however, said they believed Battaglia would oppose it.

It was back on May 7 when Padreddii first broached the subject publicly, as an "item from council" agenda item. City Manager Ed Alario said a full report will be made available within two weeks.

What was at first a seemingly quiet request ballooned into a more controversial subject when Padreddii a couple of weeks ago said such a position might be more appealing to him than a County Board of Supervisors seat.

While answering a reporter's question on whether or not he intended to run for supervisor, as had been rumored in political circles, Padreddii said he was not making a formal declaration, because he may run for "full-time mayor."

Asked to explain more fully this desire for an elected mayor, Padreddii last week said, "A lot of people are saying this city is big enough to have an elected mayor. I just brought it up to have a study made to see if it's feasible and if it ought to be put on the ballot.

"I want to leave it up to the people," said Padreddii. "I would support putting it on the ballot."

Mirri, meanwhile, said he's been pursuing this executive change since the time he served as mayor. "If I've made this issue apparent it will be the greatest accomplishment that I could make," he said.

"I feel strongly that elected officials on the local level should participate more significantly in the day-to-day operations of government," said Mirri.

His concept of the elective mayor position is that the mayor would be a liaison between management and the other councilmen.

"The city manager form of government is government by referral," said Mirri. "It's about time the legislative role catches up with the management role. Elected officials should be participating in all staff meetings."

Answering the question of a growing bureaucracy both Mirri and Padreddii said the city presently has a city manager and an assistant city manager. They said that maybe, with an elected mayor, there would be a need for only one of those positions.

Mammini was particularly critical of the possible additional bureaucracy. "Eventually, he (the elected mayor) will want a secretary and then an administrative assistant, because he won't know what he's doing," said Mammini. "That could add up to a lot of money at the end of the year."

Councilman Mammini also cautioned, "When you get into this (elected mayor) you wind up with the possibility of a dictatorial government."

Mirri said he would not want that form of government and to insure it would not become such under an elected mayor would have no veto power.

"This is the qualifier," said Mirri. "It would eliminate patronage or overwhelming political influence." Mirri said he would want the mayor to have a single vote like the other councilmen, "but the management concept of the city would change. A no cost item to the city," he said. "I look at it as a complement to the managerial system we now have," he said.

Mirri agreed a full-time mayor would have to have a substantial salary to lure qualified people. He suggested that pay for such a position might be in the range of $16,000 to $18,000 a year.

"In the long run I feel the city will save money and get better legislative representation. Now a citizen with a complaint goes to a department head. The elected mayor could go to that man's home. His main job now is cutting ribbons," said Mirri.

Mirri also suggested that an elected mayor would have more political clout for the city on county-wide issues. Elected officials presently are inhibited by other (business) commitments, he said.

Both Mammini and Steinkamp suggested that the desire for the elected mayor position was strictly to bolster chances for higher political office.

Padreddii responded to that by saying a man could run for higher office just as easy from the councilman seat. Mirri said, "It's not politically motivated on my part. I have no desire to run if such a position were declared. It's just important to me to voice why I'm in favor of it."

He said it would be great if every elected official in higher office had "gone through the ranks" from councilman on up. "I wouldn't want anyone but an ambitious person to serve in any capacity in government," said Mirri.

"With a full-time mayor and a new interpretation of this role there would be a greater repect for the office on all levels," he said. "A city of this size requires a full time mayor form of government." Mirri said the public was "being cheated" by not having one.

And if you get a bad mayor?

"That's the risk of government with any office," said Mirri. "I hope to God if this city did get a sloth they would throw him out."

Alario said he had no objection to an elected mayor. "It doesn't change a solitary thing," he said. One thing that does concern Alario, however, is that should there be a vacancy of the office of mayor for any reason, the council would have to fill the vacancy by appointment within 30 days, or, failing to do so, hold an election. "That could be expensive," he said.

Under the government code, the requirements to run for an elective mayor seat are the same as those for city councilman. A person, however, may not run for both councilman and mayor at the same time. The code also does provide for additional compensation, either set by the council or the electors.

Steinkamp said he doubted the issue would get anywhere because Mirri and Padreddii are in the minority on the matter.

"If they refuse to put it on the ballot, that would probably kill the whole thing," admitted Padreddii. "If they don't want to give the people the choice they're not representing the people," he added.

Ryan Gives Views on Official Travel

Home from a three-week tour of Europe, Congressman Leo J. Ryan, D-San Mateo, is smarting from a recent newspaper account of his Congressional trips, the story pointing him out as California's most junketeering Congressman.

Ryan arrived in Washington, D.C., Thursday night from Germany and Friday called his journey an "evaluation tour of the European military alliance."

He defended his sojourn around American embassies and military bases and foreign capitals as important to his business on the House International Relations Committee, the former Foreign Relations Committee.

A San Francisco newspaper had listed Ryan as having traveled the farthest of all the state's Congressmen at public expense. Ryan conceded that, "There's no question it (tax-paid Congressional travel) is misused occasionally by some, but I don't see how it's possible to conduct our affairs, such as determining how much aid to Israel is needed, without going there."

"I'm new at it and I need as much information as I can get," said Ryan, a former state Assemblyman elected to Congress in 1972.

"To learn about our relations with foreign countries we must talk to them and there are three ways of doing that," he explained.

"One is to ask the State Department, the second is to send staff members, and the third is to go yourself.

"We can't just sit and let (Henry) Kissinger run the show," Ryan said, recalling several differences of opinion with the secretary of state.

There also may be more European travel in the near future, Ryan said. While in Rome he was asked by the U.S. embassy to return soon to "help shore-up" the non-Communist forces in Italy, which Ryan said stands a very good chance of going Communist in the next 18 months.

He also has been asked to head a delegation to the European Parliament in October, where military commitments and economic matters vital to the U.S. will be considered, Ryan said.

Ryan attended one such five-day parliament meeting in Munich in March, two months after a tour of South Vietnam and U.S. installations in Southeast Asia and several months after touring Middle East trouble spots.

This last European tour took him to Portugal, Spain, Italy and Germany, Ryan reported. In Portugal he talked to leaders of both sides of the civil strife there and found the talks "very useful." In Spain he discussed chances of Spain joining the North Atlantic Treaty Organization after Generalissimo Franco is gone.

Back-Packer Dies on Trail

Robert R. Evarts, 39, a former resident of San Bruno, did unexpectedly in the Saddlebags Lake area east of Yosemite National Park, near Leevining, Mono County, Friday, while leading a back-packing group.

According to members of his family, he collapsed and died of undetermined causes.

Evarts resided most of his life in San Bruno and was in the first graduating class of Capuchino High School. He attended the University of California and later became assistant Dean of Students at Davis. At the time of his death he was Graduate Fellowship Program Supervisor for the State Scholarship and Loan Commission at Sacramento.

A native of South San Francisco, he attended San Bruno schools, and was prominent in student activities.

All of his life he participated in outdoor activities. He was an active member of the Sierra Club.

At Davis, he was student body president and a member of Sigma Nu Fraternity.

Surviving are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Palmer H. Evarts of Burlingame; his widow, Mrs. Carolyn Evarts of Davis; two brothers, John Evarts of Woodland Hills and Donald Evarts of Newport Beach and two nephews. Funeral services are pending.

Choraliers

South San Francisco Choraliers Director Roy Marlow said the chorus will resume rehearsals beginning Sept. 11 at 8 p.m. at St. Paul's Methodist Church in South San Francisco.

The Choraliers are an adult recreational chorus which is open to anyone over 18-years-old who enjoys performing choral music.

Postmasters Appointed

New Postmasters have been named for Millbrae and Belmont, the Regional Post Office at San Bruno announced Friday.

Robert J. Smith, assistant postmaster at Millbrae, has been named Postmaster.

William L. Cunningham, assistant postmaster at Belmont, has been promoted to Postmaster.

Postmaster General Benjamin F. Bailor said both appointments were made according to the non-political postmaster selection system, and are effective immediately.

Fire Station Contract

The Pacifica City Council has awarded the contract for construction of a new fire station in the Linda Mar section to Tyson Construction Co. on a low bid of $372,900.

The bid by the Redwood City firm includes an $8,000 bid alternate for on-site gas pumps and fuel storage units. There were seven alternates included in the bidding. However, since the city was working with a fixed total budget of $410,000 only the fuel tank alternate was accepted.

In other business, the council:

• Called for enforcement of 1971 use permit requirements for the Pillar of Fire Church School to complete landscaping, construction of curbs and gutters and do design engineering on the south side of Linda Mar Boulevard fronting the site. Also, the council voted to use gas tax funds for design engineering on the north side of that street.

The city intends to improve the street because a fire station will be built in the immediate area.

• Voted to send a city staff evaluation of the Coastal Zone Conservation Commission's Government, Powers and Funding Element to that body.

It was noted by staff that "the key issue with this element is in its fiscal impact on the city given the mandated programs inherent in the element as well as lost property tax revenues from substantial public acquisitions."

• Adopted a resolution which spells out criteria for use of the City Council chambers by various public and private groups, and fees to cover the city's expense in opening, setting up and closing the chambers.

• Agreed to waive parcel map fees for the county in connection with the planned acquisition of property by the county for a new Pacifica library.

• Upheld the planning commission's approval of a use permit to allow the extension of a day care nursery at 1470 Adobe Drive which had been appealed by adjoining property owners James Booher, Ronald Adolph and Raeanne Cole. Councilwoman Janice Fulford voted against the approval.

PRESIDENT

Mrs. Richard Mudge will preside over her first meeting as president of the Westlake Catholic Women Sept. 8 following the 8 p.m. devotions to Our Lady of Perpetual Help. Mrs. Mudge will be assisted during the year by Mmes. Peter Ballestreri, vice-president; James McCann, first director; Harry Kanelopoulos, second director; Michael Millane, third director; James Garvey, fourth director; Joseph Potter, recording secretary; Harry Lindner, corresponding secretary; A. J. Phillips, treasurer; Edward LeBlanc, ACCW representative; Robert Brizuela, publicity; and John Zuffo, historian.

Women in Transition At Skyline

Skyline College is offering Women in Transition, a unique block of courses designed for women who have not been to school in some time.

Classes are held on Tuesdays and Thursdays at midday times.

No admission tests, no tuition and no high school diplomas are required.

In addition to college-level coursework, vocational planning, counseling and help with individual goal-setting in a warm, supportive atmosphere will be offered. If interested and have not yet registered in the WIT Program, dop one of the following:

Call the WIT program, mornings, 355-7000, ext. 358 or evenings, 665-2304.

Write to Joyce Unger, faculty advisor, WIT, Skyline College.

Attend a pre-class meeting on the first day of the semester, 9:45 a.m., Sept. 11, bldg. 2, third floor staff lounge (at far end of cafeteria).

Presbyterian Church Slates Sunday Peak

Broadmoor Presbyterian Church Sunday school classes meet each week from 10-11:10 a.m. during the church worship service.

The pupils attend church once each month when the junior choir usually sings.

Classes are held for those of three years of age through sixth grade. Junior high students, including ninth graders who wish to attend, meet for class and activities each Thursday at 7 p.m.

Youth of the high school-college ages meet Sundays at 7 p.m.

Infant care is provided on Sunday mornings.

This Sunday the pupils go to their new classes because of change in ages and grades.

A promotion program is held in the church sanctuary the last part of the 10 a.m. church worship service.

New third graders will receive Bibles.

Parents are urged to bring and register their children for classes with the superintendent, Mrs. Oliver Anderson and Mrs. Ira Stout.

Robbery Suspects Held to Answer

Four men charged with the Aug. 12 robbery of a Burlingame pharmacy — a robbery in which one bandit allegedly attempted to use a truck driver as a hostage — have been ordered bound over to Superior Court to stand trial on charges of armed robbery.

Following a preliminary hearing in Central District Municipal Court Wednesday, Judge Thomas Caldwell ordered the four suspects to appear in superior court Sept. 11.

The four suspects are Harold White, 37, and John Lee Atchley, 22, both of Borger, Texas; Alvin Ellis, 41, and Raymond Williams, 49, both of San Francisco.

The four men were arrested minutes after a reported robbery at the Mills Estate Pharmacy, 1818 El Camino Real. Arriving police arrested two men in an auto nearby but discovered two other suspects still inside the pharmacy.

Police arrested one of the suspects inside the front door.

New Exhibit at Octagon Gallery, DC

Sept. 6 marks the opening of "Photo Realism," a collecton of 10 paintings by San Francisco artist Tom Portue, at the Octagon Gallery at 90th and Sullivan St., Daly City.

Portue attended San Francisco City College where he earned his Associates Arts degree in Commercial Art.

He went on to San Francisco State University to receive his bachelor of arts in 1973.

He has exhibited frequently at the Palo Alto Cultural Center. At the First Annual Painting Invitational in 1973, 2nd Annual Open Arts Competition in 1974, where he received the purchase award for best of show by popular vote and the 2nd Annual Painting Invitational in 1974.

He was in the Introductory Show at John Bolles Gallery, San Francisco and is currently showing at the Ericson Gallery in Palo Alto and the H.P. Corwith Galleries in San Francisco. The Photo Realism collection was last at the Corridor Gallery in Redwood City.

Hayward King, the San Mateo County Arts Council's gallery consultant organized the show and terms the 10 acrylic paintings as "Photo Realism."

The gallery program of the San Mateo County Arts Council is funded in part by the California Arts Commission.

OPEN HOUSE

The Studio of Dance opens its doors for the fall semester on Sept. 15 and welcomes visitors the remainder of the month. Student Diane Sabbatani of Daly City is shown in the pre-ballet class for children 6 and 7 years. She now is an academic ballet student. Studio director Grete Sorensen teaches ballet and Valerie Watson will teach jazz dancing.

DC Asks Information

The Daly City council wants more information on two sewing shops for which applicants seek permission to locate inside the city before granting them a use permit to operate.

Councilmen Paul Hupf and William Schumacher said this week they do not want to be part of a "sweatshop" operation and asked the matter be tabled until staff could give them additional information on how the company operates.

Betsy Ng and Kingston Lee asked the city for the permit to operate two sewing center shops on Geneva Avenue at the corner of Oriente avenue near the Cow Palace.

The shops would be located next to each other.

One of the shops would employ 14 persons. The other six persons.

Raymond Ng, spokesman for the businesses, told the council the applicants had operated similar shops in San Francisco's Chinatown district for the past 11 years.

Board Supports Mountain Bill

The San Mateo County Board of Supervisors Tuesday unanimously endorsed Assembly Bill 2329 which would provide $4 million for the acquisition of a state park site in the San Bruno Mountain area.

In its action, the board gave assurance that the current planning process and hearings to determine if the County General Plan should be amended to allow a proposed residential development on the mountain will continue.

The board also approved the wording "San Bruno Mountain area" in the language of the bill. County Manager M. D. Tarshes said he was informed by State Parks and Recreation Director Herbert Rhodes that the word "area" will be inserted in the bill, which now designates the allocation of the $4 million for "San Bruno Mountain land acquisition." Tarshes was directed to confer with Rhodes as to details of the state's plans.

The bill was authored by the late Assemblyman Edwin L. Z'Berg, D-Sacramento, who died of a heart attack this morning.

Robert Follett, general manager of Visitacion Associates, which plans the multi-million dollar Crocker Hills residential development on the mountain, charged before the board today that the "no-growthers" want and feel the funds will be available for acquisition of the desirable "saddle" area of the mountain.

"If anyone in the audience is so naive to believe this was not perpetrated by Claire Dedrick (director of the State Resources Agency) they had better go back to the primer," Follett said.

He termed the proposal an attempt by the state to "take our property, disrupting the orderly process."

If the saddle area is taken it would stop the project and ruin plans to develop low and medium income housing on the site, he added.

Dist. Atty. Keith C. Sorenson stated that it would be an invasion into the prerogative of the County Planning Commission and the general planning for San Bruno Mountain if the board or the State Legislature attempted arbitrarily to say what land should or should not be acquired for a state park.

It would usurp the orderly process, Sorenson said, and could subject the county to suit for inverse condemnation.

Board Chairman James V. Fitzgerald assured concerned developers and buiding trades representatives that "the planning process for development of the mountain will continue."

"We will make a decision on the merits of the project," Fitzgerald said. "The state will wait for the determination."

Supervisor Jean Fassler, who moved for endorsement of the appropriation bill, commented, "We're not here to debate, but to accept more money for park purposes . . . I don't have a distrust of the state's intent."

Tarshes said that it is expected that the bill will be approved by the Assembly prior to the Sept. 15 recess, then will go to the Senate when the Legislature reconvenes in January. It will become effective immediately upon signing by Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. The funds are available in 1975 appropriations, he said.

High Holy Days Services Planned

The High Holy Days Season for the Jewish Community was ushered in with Selihot Services held at Congregation B'nai Israel, 1575 Annie St., Daly City, Saturday.

The New Year 5736 will begin with "Erev Roch Hashanah" Services Friday at 8 p.m.

All services at Congregation B'nai Israel are conducted by Rabbi Ira Book and Cantor Jacob Graudenz, who chants the liturgy.

Also participating in the High Holy Days Services will be the synagogue choir led by Richard Altman, organist and choir director.

At 8:30 a.m. Saturday, the First Day of Rosh Hashanah will begin. During the day there will be a Torah Service, Mufas Service and Tashlich.

A young people's service will be held at 10:30 a.m. at 590 Washington St. on each day of the High Holidays.

On Saturday evening "Erev Rosh Hashanah 2nd Day" Services will be held commencing at 8 p.m. at the synagogue.

Second Day Rosh Hashanah Services will be held at the synagogue at 8:30 a.m. Sunday services will be observed at Thorton Beach at 5 p.m.

All other services will be held at the synagogue including Torah Service, Shofar Service and Musaf Service.

Heart-Lung Film Available to Show

Congressman Leo J. Ryan, D-San Mateo, has announced the vailability of a cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR) film on free loan to groups in San Mateo County.

According to Ryan, "The 14-minute color motivational film explains an easily learned method of sustaining heart and lung function when a heart attack occurs. No special equipment is needed, and everyone over the age of 15 can learn by taking a two or three hour course of instruction."

Narrated by Burt Lancaster, the 16-mm film is endorsed by the American Medical Association, American Heart Association American College of Cardiology and the American National Red Cross.

To obtain a free loan of this potentially life-saving film write Congressional Film Loan Program, ACT Foundation, 350 Grove Street, Somerville, N.J. 08876, at least two weeks before the planned viewing date and give two alternate screening dates as well, Ryan advised.

Coffees Slated for Parents

Five informal "coffee meetings" for parents of incoming freshman students at San Mateo High School are scheduled Sept. 10 through 23 by members of the San Mateo High School P-TA.

The gatherings are designed to acquaint parents of new high school students with programs of the school, according to June Neuling, publicity chairman.

Principal Richard Tubbs and other members of the school's administrative staff will describe the school and its functions, and answer questions.

Meetings are scheduled for Sept. 10 at 10 a.m. at San Mateo Park School, Sept. 11 at 8 p.m. at Shoreview, Sept. 15 at 8 p.m. at Foster City, Sept. 16 at 10 a.m. at Hillsborough, and Sept. 23 at 8 p.m. at Foster City.

A Timely Lesson

Members of the Mission Street Merchants' Association in Daly City concluded their meeting Thursday with a lengthy discussion on the future of parking meters along the business corridor.

Parking and parking meters are considered of paramount importance by merchants. They are seeking ways and means to revitalize the area's shopping activity.

When they went to their cars parked outside the restaurant, some 20 members discovered that a police officer had tagged their cars — all for overtime meter parking.

Time for Giants Fans to Take Heart

Le Pacini

We think it's time for Giants fans to take heart, now that we know they're not going to win the pennant whether or not they beat the Dodgers out for second place.

Consider that most national and some local "experts" picked them for fifth or sixth place, that they have the youngest team in the National League, that they've run into an uncommon number of injuries, and that they've had some very bad losing streaks. Thinking of all that, even if they finish only in fourth place, they've done damned well especially if that finish is around the .500 mark.

Perhaps the one trait displayed by the Giants that portends best for the future has been their ability to bounce back — not only off those losing streaks (often to start a winning streak), but back from way behind in individual games. They haven't always gone on to win those long comebacks, but they've often made it interesting and close. The main thing is that they have seldom given up.

ONE THING the Giants must do next year is add somebody to the roster who murders left-handed pitchers. It doesn't necessarily have to be a right-handed hitter.

Bobby Murcer, for example (at this writing) is hitting about .320 against lefties, around .300 against righties. And although we don't have Gary Matthews' figures at hand, we would bet that he's doing better this season against the unconventional throwers than the portsiders.

While it's true that the Giants were getting murdered by left-handers while Matthews was out of the lineup earlier in the season, it's also true that right-handers were beating them frequently. And while it's true that the Giants have done better since Matthews' return, it is also true that they're still being stymied by southpaws.

Ironic, isn't it, that one of the reasons why the Giants say they traded Bobby Bonds for Bobby Murcer was because they were unbalanced on the right side and needed more lefty hitting power.

TRIVIA BUFFS — Who would you say had the most votes in the original Hall of Fame balloting which opened the hall with Babe Ruth, Ty Cobb, Honus Wagner, Walter Johnson and Christy Mathewson?

We would have guessed Ruth, but we would have been wrong. Cobb garnered 222 votes and Ruth could only tie with Wagner at 215.

To go a step further, who would you say had the most votes between the two pitchers of the original quintet? We would have said Johnson and been wrong. Mathewson had 205, Johnson 189.

It is interesting that just prior to the Hall of Fame induction, Detroit sportswriter, editor and columnist Joe Falls conducted a local (Detroit) contest to determine, at least in the minds of contemporary fans, who has been Michigan's greatest athlete. Gordie Howe polled almost twice as many votes as Cobb, who ranked second.

Actually we think that was a pretty good showing for Cobb, who is long dead, whose career ended more than four decades ago and who probably less than 1 per cent of the voters ever saw in action.

Joe Louis, incidentally, ranked fourth, another good showing for a long retired athlete, especially since he beat out the contemporary Al Kaline, who is a great hero in Detroit.

But to continue with the trivia. This next item ought to be sent to Dave Kingman. He could carry it in his wallet and whip it out every time he gets criticized for striking out. There is a kid in the Cubs' organization named Bill Bright who in 1972 (when he was with the Cardinal chain), while playing with Arkansas in the Texas League, struck out 33 consecutive times. That, incidentally, was part of an 0-for-60 streak.

While we're with futility, here's one you Detroit fans can stick in your wallet. You think the Tigers know how to lose in the modern baseball world? This season the Bellingham Dodgers of the Class A Northwest League lost 25 straight. What was more incredible, that was their first 25 games of the season, an all-time record. Can you imagine a team winning their first game of the year on July 12?

The all-time baseball record for straight losses was set in 1949 by Granite Falls of the Western Carolinas League. They did it 33 times.

There must be an epidemic this year, because Charleston, a Pirate farm of the Western Carolinas, lost 22 straight earlier this year.

SOMETHING WE forgot to mention last week while reviewing "Where Have You Gone, Joe Dimaggio," and discussing Joe's incredible 61-game hitting streak with the Seals when he was only 18, was the fact that the year (1939) Dimaggio hit .381 with the Yankees, he was over .400 for most of the season, and didn't fall below that mark until an eye ailment the last few weeks of the season rendered him virtually helpless at the plate.

Not only does that speak well for the ability of the man who might have been a .400 hitter like his contemporary, Ted Williams, who did it two years later, but also for his tremendous pride and team attitude, which we also were discussing last week.

Dimaggio could have, with great justification, stayed on the sidelines and protected his batting average. But the Yankees were in a pennant race, and he felt that he could help them at least defensively. And Dimaggio was never one to hang around a bench if he could drag himself onto the field.

Well, he did help them defensively and morale wise, as his very presence on the field, especially in his poor physical condition, inspired teammates, causing some of them to play over their heads to compensate for the relative (only relative, mind you) ineffectiveness of Dimag.

The Yankees went on to win the pennant, beat Cincinnati four straight in the Series, and Dimaggio hit .313 with a home run in those four games. What a man!

As trivia buffs know, Williams actually hit over .400 on two other occasions in the big leagues, and in consecutive years. In 1952 when he spent all but six games in the service, he hit an even .400 (4-for-10), and the following season, also spent mostly flying airplanes in Korea, he hit .407 in 37 games. He was ages 34 and 35 those years, and hit the .407 in .53 without benefit of spring training. Stepped right off the airplane and started swinging. What a man!

DON'T THINK Charley Finley's dumb to be thinking of going to Seattle, as the rumors have it.

Despite its failure to attract large numbers of fans previously as a major league team, Seattle is a good baseball town and could be a great one with that domed stadium and proper promotion.

You may remember that the Seals of 1946 still hold the all-time minor league attendance record 670,563. And if you're a real statistics buff, you may know that the best runnerup mark happened in that same year in Oakland, when the Oaks drew 634,311.

But we'll bet you don't know that the record that the Seals and Oaks broke was held by Seattle, when they drew 517,000 in 1939. In 1946, Seattle, which finished in a tie for last place, drew 444,551, which was up 10,000 from what they had drawn in 1945 as the league's leader in attendance, despite a second place finish.

Neil Sheridan, who played right field for the Seals in '46 and who later went to Seattle via the Boston Red Sox, told us recently that Seattle could be a real sleeper franchise. "One of the greatest baseball towns I ever played in," he said.

Rising Value of Silver Makes It a Real 'Steal'

By ALAN QUALE

Remember that familiar cartoon figure of an unshaven burglar with the black eye mask and the sack full of silverware draped over his back?

The figure — almost imaginary in the comic strip reader's mind — has now become a reality.

The price of silver has more than doubled in the past two years. At the present $4.80 value per ounce (more than $77 a pound) silver is a real good steal these days.

And that is exactly what increasing numbers of common thieves are doing, according to San Mateo Police Lt. Richard St. Clair.

A few years ago this was not the case when "international silver prices were reasonable," added St. Clair.

Silver was worth only $2 per ounce two years ago when home burglars were most apt to concentrate their thievery on jewelry, the family television set and stereo.

Silver pieces were often ignored at that time and it was not at all uncommon for the returning homeowner, who was burglarized, to find grandmother's silver tea set sitting untouched on the dining room table.

But thievery — not unlike a legitimate business — closely follows supply and demand. As the demand for silver sho' upward, accompanied by the sharp increase in price, grandmother's silver tea set became less secure.

So did sterling silverware, candle holders, serving plates and anything else made of the soft, white and precious metal, added St. Clair.

Police and newspaper reporters have dubbed such thieves the "silver burglars" The label covers a broad spectrum of thieves, but St. Clair lists three general categories:

• The professional silver burglars who prey on mostly affluent neighborhoods and steal mostly silver.

• Common thieves who "caught onto the latest thing" and now steal silverware while collecting the other usual household items.

• Finally, there is a growing number of inner-family silver thefts, most often teenagers who are more tempted today to steal silverware from their family or relative's home.

"We recently had a case where 16 and 17-year-old kids were stealing sterling flatware from their parents and grandparents and then selling it," said St. Clair.

Most stolen silver is sold to metal dealers, pawn shops, antique dealers and second-hand stores, according to St. Clair.

Such businesses are obligated by law to identify the true owner of silver items offered them for sale "and see to it that the owner is, in fact, the one selling the property," the lieutenant added.

St. Clair said "the vast majority" of such businesses follow the above prescribed law. But a small percentage of such businesses do provide a dumping ground for stolen silver — knowingly purchasing stolen silver from thieves at one-tenth the market price.

And still other honest silver buyers are legitimately fooled by clever thieves. St. Clair described the common approach of such a thief — posing as an heir to his dead grandmother's silver — who explains "I have to sell it because I am unemployed and have no money."

While the number of "silver burglars" continue to grow, so does the police effort to stop the thievery.

"Recoveries (of stolen silver) are most often made at metal dealers, pawn shops and second-hand dealers," said St. Clair.

Once police recover a stolen silver object they "work backwards" from the buyer and have been nabbing an increasing number of silver thieves during recent months.

Although stopping short of describing the exact method police are using to trace their way to the silver thief, St. Clair said "an awful lot of surveillance" is involved.

San Mateo police have subsequently recovered a total of $7,700 worth of stolen silver in their investigations of various thefts during the past month.

Nine persons have been arrested so far. Most of those arrested are young "and most of it is drug related," added St. Clair, indicating the thieves often steal to pay for their narcotics habits.

The police crackdown has spawned an unexpected problem of its own. Officers are having some difficulty finding owners of stolen silver that is recovered.

Silver is often tucked away in a small wooden storage chest or inside a china cabinet drawer and used only on special occasions, explained St. Clair.

Thefts have therefore occurred, but gone undiscovered for several months.

St. Clair offers three suggestions for silver owners — suggestions which he said would aid police in the recovery and return of stolen property:

• Check your silver supplies periodically to make sure they are not missing.

• Engrave a small but distinguishable mark on the rear side of silver objects. "It will not lessen the value of the property and that way we (police) would be able to identify it."

• Silver owners should write down the names of the manufacturer and specific silver product and keep the list in case their silver is stolen.

Regional Planners to Assist District

Involvement of San Mateo County's Regional Planning Committee in developing the county's new transit district and in tying together various bayfront improvement plans was the big topic of the group Thursday night in Burlingame.

Nearly an hour was spent attempting to define the RPC's role with respect to the transit district. The task is complicated by the fact that the transit board is newly formed and RPC is recently reorganized.

Since San Mateo County's Board of Supervisors ordered its reconstruction some months ago from a former commission, RPC has been re-structuring itself, its subcommittees, its functions and goals.

One of its major assignments from the supervisors is to act as an advisory board to the transit district. RPC heard a report from subcommittee leader James Hardt on how this might be accomplished.

While the transit district is trying to weld together the several city bus systems in the county, to form one coordinated overall system, Hardt said, RPC could be acting as a channel for citizen and community communication.

For a time the discussion broadened as individual members reviewed individual busing problems or achievements of the 19 cities they represent.

Then Chairperson Lore Radisch of San Carlos and subcommittee leader Hardt returned to the goal of the report, deciding how deeply RPC can get into individual problems such as routing, scheduling, ticket pricing.

Hardt asked for comments from other members and promised a "final draft" of his goals report for RPC's next monthly meeting.

Anja Miller from Brisbane asked for RPC involvement in coordinating bayfront planning of the county and various cities, a request she has previouslv made.

Planner Morgan Woollett said the county's planning staff is monitoring the several plans, and will be bringing them to RPC as they come up. It was agreed that such coordination is a major part of the committee's primarv function.

Public member Aaron Jackson delivered a report on RPC's subcommittee on Scenic Roads and Bikeways. The committee adopted a proposal to form one joint sub-committee, combining both functions, as a subcommittee or advisory group to its own subcommittee on transportation.

Michael Barrett of Redwood City reported that the City-County Highways Fund subcommittee is seeking action to release certain state funds which have become snarled in recent administrative action.

Other informational reports were presented, including one by county planning staffer Barry Nathan, on the "seismic safety element" adopted Thursday by the ounty planning commission as a portion of the county general plan.

Nathan said the two-volume county plan could be used by cities in completing their own, and would undoubtedly be used by outside agencies as a reference source for years to come.

Follett Blasts Resources Agency

Development Pushed

Although he believes anti-growth proponents are aiming at acquisition of the "saddle" area on San Bruno Mountain, Robert Follett, general manager of Visitacion Associates, says the firm is going ahead with plans for its proposed Crocker Hills development.

Follett charged Tuesday before the County Board of Supervisors that "no-growthers" want the $4 million the state would allocate for a state park in the area to be available for acquisition of the saddle area where low and medium housing is planned.

"We have every intention of building this project," Follett said Thursday. "I'll bet anyone this (state park proposal) will not affect our project in any way. We haven't changed our thinking."

Follett reiterated his contention that Claire Dedrick, director of the state Resources Agency, engineered placing of the $4 million appropriation in Assembly Bill 2329 authored by the late Assemblyman Edwin L. Z'Berg. The bill would appropriate a total of $14,095,000 for various state park projects in the state.

"She is the strategist for the opposition to the Crocker Hills project," Follett asserted. "Her whole interest is to get the saddle area, but I don't think she has this kind of horsepower."

Follett expressed faith that the Board of Supervisors will "do the right thing" and that the County Planning Commission will make a decision concerning the proposed development "on its merits."

However, the Visitacion general manager added, if the county "heads for the saddle, it obviously will have condemned the property at that point."

This, he said, would result in litigation to determine market value which would be "a far cry from $4 million."

Follett is optimistic that the state money would be put to the best possible use in the North County area.

He noted that the Board of Supervisors endorsed a change in wording in the allocation bill to specify that the funds be used to purchase a state park site in the San Bruno Mountain "area."

Nothing would preclude use of the funds to acquire a park site comprising the Brisbane Lagoon, Sierra Point and a portion of the Southern Pacific property, a total of 250 acres, Follett said.

However, the general manager stated, the whole thing could become moot if economy-minded Gov. Edmund Brown Jr., declines to sign the allocation bill if it passes the Legislature.

Knights Slate Annual Dinner

Al Cortes, Grand Knight reports that Marian Council 3773, Knights of Columbus, will hold their annual Past Grand Knight's Dinner on Saturday evening at Lyle's Restaurant, 744 El Camino Real, South San Francisco.

This year's honoree, Rich Rusting, has been a member of the Daly City based council for four years and was instrumental in leading the council to top honors in the state.

Nell Norton

Good morning, good cooks.

Last week we featured an apple pie. This week we'll continue with creating treats using apples. This dessert is similar to apple pie but has the added attraction of serving twelve.

APPLE DELIGHT

3 pounds apples
1 cup water
1¼ cups sugar
1 teaspoon cinnamon
¼ teaspoon salt
A few drops red food coloring, if desired
2 tablespoons corn starch
¼ cup cold water

Pare and core the three pounds apples and cut into eighths. In a large saucepan combine the cup of water, one and one-fourth cups sugar, one teaspoon cinnamon and fourth teaspoon salt. (Add the red food coloring, if you want a more colorful dessert.) Bring to a boiling point, add the apples and cook slowly for 10 minutes. Blend the two tablespoons corn starch with the fourth cup water and add to the apples. Cook 5 minutes longer, stirring gently. Cool 10 minutes.

Spread the apples over the bottom crust. Cover with top crust and cut small slashes. Bake in 450-degree oven for 20 minutes, reduce heat and cook 30 minutes longer. Cool and sprinkle very lightly with powdered sugar.

CRUST

2 cups sifted flour
½ teaspoon salt
¾ cup shortening
2 egg yolks
6 tablespoons water

Sift the two cups flour with the one-half teaspoon salt. Cut in the three-fourths cup shortening. Blend the two egg yolks with the six tablespoons water. Sprinkle the egg-water mixture over the flour, one tablespoon at a time, tossing gently with a fork until particles stick together when pressed gently. Shape into a smooth ball.

Divide the dough into two parts. Place half the dough between two long sheets of waxed paper, which have been lightly floured. Roll out dough to fit a 9x13-inch pan. Place the dough in pan and up the sides to about an inch. (Don't be afraid to handle the dough. I did a lot of mending and patching to shape it up the sides of the pan.)

Roll out the second part of the pastry between paper and place over apple filling. Cut small gashes in top.

Xi Lambda Sets Meeting

Xi Lambda Sigma Exemplar Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi will meet at the home of the new president, Mrs. Walter Clendenon, San Mateo, at 8 p.m. Sept. 8th.

The cultural program, "Woman, Her Heritage and Her Hope" will be presented by Mrs. Norman Jackson, San Bruno, as taken from the program book entitled "Heritage and the Woman" furnished by the International Office for the coming yearr.

GIRL SCOUTING

SERVICE TEAM members of the Daly City Girl Scout Association will meet Tuesday from 7:30 - 9:30 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Margaret Connolly, 30 Terrace Drive, Daly City, to arrange the local plan of work.

"The Adventuress", a 101-foot sailing schooner was the site for one week Puget Sound sailing school attended by seven Daly City Mariner Girl Scouts. The girls sailed the ship from Puget Sound in Seattle to Victoria, British Columbia and the San Juan Islands.

Two local adults volunteered their time and expertise. Ferne Dahlin, assistant advisor of Mariner troop 13, was the trip director and Pat Romelfanger, also of Mariner troop 13, was the assistant trip director.

Girls who "wo-manned" the sails, organized watches and went small boat sailing included Leana Medina, Patty Byrne, Kim Gustofson, Ellen Ridge, Theresa Clark, Susy Dahlin and Marian Fitzpatrick.

Miss Fitzpatrick reports "We flew from the San Francisco Airport to the Seattle Airport, boarded the schooner at Shilshole Bay in Seattle, sailed amomg the San Juan Island to Victoria, British Columbia and back again on an eight day cruise."

Miss Fitzpatrick said, "The crew of 27 girls raised the sails, scrubbed the decks and . . . ran the sailing ship. We went small boat sailing, took classes in ship's knots, charting, rules of the road, nomenclature, stood watches and took the helm."

"Officers were selected from among the girls, such as bo'sun and bo'sun's mate, who organized the running of the ship and crew leaders, galley chiefs and sailmasters.

The girls from (Daly City) troop 13 held the following offices:

Leana Medina and Patty Byrne served as crew leaders and organized crews or patrols. Ellen Ridge and Kim Gustofson served as sailmasters organizing small boat sailing.

Theresa Clark was elected galley chief and supervised preparation and clean up of all meals served on board ship. Susy Dahlin served as bo'sun and Marian Fitzpatrick served as bo'sun's mate.

4 Sharing Pulpit at Beth-Israel

Rabbi Herbert Morris, spiritual leader of Congregation Beth Israel-Judea, Brotherhood Way, San Francisco, has invited four congregants to share the pulpit on the first Day of Rosh Hashanah at services on Sept. 6.

Howard Friedman, student body president of Serramonte High School, Daly City, 1974-75; Quentin Kopp, San Francisco supervisors and member of the Beth Israel-Judea Board of Trustees; Sue Marcus, a June graduate of U.C. Berkeley soon to be enrolled at the St. Luke's School of Nursing; and Mrs. Stanley (Carolyn) Wiener, presently at work on her doctorate in Sociology at the U.C. Medical Center.

These individuals will present their views on "Who and What is the American Jew Today?"

Riordan Guild Plans Meeting

The Riordan Guild will meet Sept. 9 at 8 p.m. in Chaminade Hall.

Mrs. William Sandoval, the new president, has invited all freshment mothers to attend.

IT'S YOUR MONEY

Q. I know I have to pay the $84 deductible under my Medicare hospital insurance. But I'm confused about what else I have to pay the hospital. What are the amounts and when do I pay them?

A: The $84 hospital insurance deductible is all you pay for covered services for up to 60 days. If you need to be in the hospital for more than 60 days, you pay $21 a day for covered services for the 61st through the 90th day. If you need to be in a hospital for more than 90 days, you can use your 60-day reserve. For each reserve day, you pay $42 a day for covered services.

Bruno Sportsman Believes in Balance

Ecological Awareness His Goal

By JANET PARKER

It took Larry Green 37 different jobs to realize fishing was the only one he could hold.

The San Bruno man and West Coast editor of "Field and Stream" magazine said he always seemed to get fired because his job conflicted with the hours he wanted to spend with fishing pole in hand.

So, Green, now 37, pursued his real interest and since then has published more than 600 articles in leading outdoor publications.

His community service courses at Skyline College have overflowed the last four years. He's preparing three classes for this fall and has just begun a fishing forecast spot on radio.

Ecological awareness is the key factor for the sportsmen today, Green insisted last week.

He said hunters have done more to protect wildlife than any other single group.

"It may be because of a selfish need, but sportsmen have contributed millions of dollars to preserve and enhance fishing and wildlife areas. They've done more than any other group," he said.

Man, Green said, has destroyed the balance of nature over hundreds of years. He has destroyed all natural predators and the basic entities which keep nature in balance.

"It's now up to us to bring the ecosystem back in line," he said.

The controversial question of hunting versus preserving nature has been "blown out of proportion," he said.

"There's no question hunting is killing. I never want to argue that point. Killing is killing. However, it's also a means of harvesting, just as anything else."

A hunter, he said, is not a real sportsman unless he is concerned about the environment. Consequently, not all hunters are sportsmen.

"The sportsman is very aware of his role in the environment," he said.

Green stresses this environmental awareness in his courses at Skyline.

In fact, he said, 75 per cent of his course content concerns this awareness.

Awareness of the outdoors is a more important tool for the sportsman than any mechanics and techniques of fishing he can ever teach, Green said.

Green's list of credentials is impressive. In addition to his role on Field and Stream, he's contributing field editor for "American Bass Fisherman" and "American Angler" and special contributing editor of "Angler" and "Outdoor Outlook."

He's a man of many talents. His honors cover sports, engineering ideas and lobbying.

In 1969, he wrote and introduced a controversial pesticide bill (AB 552) introduced by Assemblyman Leo Ryan, D-San Mateo. He also worked to block construction of two major dams, and, in 1973, worked to block gravel-taking operations on the Smith River, "the best salmon river in the world," he said.

Recreational sports, he said, have gained popularity in recent years because people are realizing family participation is more important than the financial gains of professional sports.

His classes at Skyline, he said, have been so successful because the small specialty tackle stores which formerly provided the sportsmen with free information have dwindled. The discount store of today, where most sportsmen buy equipment, can provide no information of value.

"The people are so interested in learning," he said. "In four years I haven't had a dozen people miss a class."

Many women participate in his courses and are better than the men at fly casting, which takes coordination and timing, Green said.

Green has lived 36 of his years in San Bruno and has watched the Bay Area drastically change.

He says only four miles of the original 279 miles of public access shoreline remain on the bay.

"As a hometown boy, it's kind of frightening. It makes me a little sick to my stomach to look out my window and see smog, multi-level buildings, freeways and airplanes where I used to hunt birds and photograph wildlife," he said.

"For the outdoorsman, it's necessary to travel farther and farther to enjoy his sport," Green said.

He's interested in bringing environmental awareness to grammar school children, although he believes facilities are poor, money is scarce and poor school organization hinders the possibility.

Paul Erlich's "Population Bomb" resulted in public awareness of the environmental problems, he said.

"It had as much impact on people as the movie 'Jaws' or any other," he said.

And of course — the inevitable question.

Should we really fear sharks?

"In the years I have fished this coast and dived to take photographs, I have seen a great many sharks, the majority of them harmless," he said.

"But the general warming trend along the West Coast is a dangerous sign. In the last 15 years, we fishermen have been noticing generally more sharks in this area."

Off Princeton, he recently saw more than 100 blue sharks feeding in a frenzy. The school of sharks is more to be feared, he said. An individual shark will take time to analyze what it encounters. A school of fish will not.

The shark, he said, is a creature motivated with feelings like any other. And on occasion he may be motivated to attack. If he wants to take a bite, he will.

Green said he would like to see more college emphasis on recreational sports and outdoor education.

There's just not enough education about the outdoors available, he said.

"I can't believe so many people can know so little about the outdoors and love it so much," he said.

Volunteers Are Being Solicited

Several agencies have requested assistance this week from the Volunteer Bureau/Voluntary Action Center of San Mateo County.

AMERICAN CANCER SOCIETY — Drivers to transport cancer patients to Peninsula or Sequoia Hospital for radiation treatment. Schedules can be arranged.

MILLS HOSPITAL-SOCIAL SERVICE — A driver to take a two and one-half year-old boy from Belmont to the Peninsula Oral School for the Deaf in Redwood City. The child should be at school by 9 a.m. and is picked up there at noon. The driver can be reimbursed for gas.

PLANNED PARENTHOOD — Persons to work in the San Mateo clinic during the day; volunteers to work in the Thrift Shop Tuesday through Saturday.

SAN FRANCISCO OPERA GUILD — Opera lovers to assist with the audio-visual opera presentations in junior high school and upper elementary schools in the county during September and October. Volunteers will go in pairs with a pianist and talk to groups of children between the ages of 11 and 14.

MILLS HOSPITAL AUXILIARY — Prospective hospital auxiliary members are being invited to an orientation session on Sept. 6 at 9:15 a.m. in the Fifth Floor Conference Room.

MENTAL HEALTH ASSOCIATION — Volunteers to work in the Friendship Centers that are located throughout San Mateo County. The centers are social groups to help persons recovering from mental illness get back into community. No special background is needed; training is provided.

Additional information about these and other opportunities may be obtained from the Volunteer Bureau. The main office is open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday, and is located at 119 Primrose Road, Burlingame.

Bay Area United Way Drive Opens

This year's United Way of the Bay Area campaign, seeking funds for 192 member agencies, and with a goal of $23 million, will kick off Sept. 3.

In San Mateo County, where United Way (formerly United Bay Area Crusade) serves 35 agencies and also provides funds for 15 more areawide agencies, E. J. Blackburn, regional manager of the Allstate Insurance Co. office in Menlo Park is chairman.

Allstate's 1,500 employes and the David D. Bohannon Organization, which operates Hillsdale Shopping Center and other properties will initiate a crash, two-week "pacesetter" program at kickoff time.

Blackburn reminded that United Way is not a single agency campaign but actually a drive to provide basic funds for more than 190 campaigns.

Walt Koty, county director, who will coordinate the staff effort in San Mateo's central office at 205 W. 20th Ave., with 280 volunteers throughout the county, said today the emphasis will be to contact all employe groups in industry, local government, schools and hospitals.

"The only home contact we will make is for special gifts and with retired people of means," he said.

There is no county goal as such. "Our organization is much further along in planning and in recruiting than is usual at this time," he said.

"The attitude is exceptional. There is a good feeling among the vulunteers," he commented.

He credited that to the obvious needs. "When an economic climate seems to be in agitation, as it is now, more people are inclined to get together to help those less fortunate than themselves," he said.

He said that inflation is a factor in each direction. "Those that are in need are harder hit, and those who can give are making an extra effort."

Koty lauded the work of the San Mateo volunteer budget committee which has worked year-long to study the programs and financial needs of member agencies.

Home Offers Aid to Disabled

What if your child were born mentally retarded?

What if your child were autistic, neurologically handicapped, emotionally disturbed?

And what if your child had cerebral palsy or was the victim of epilepsy — or of scores of other disabling conditions?

What would you do?

Where would you go, once you had heard the diagnosis from your physician?

Could you afford the enormous costs of recommended care and training?

This is not a rare condition.

It can happen in any family — regardless of age, health, whether both parents are exceptionally intelligent or of average intelligence, whether they are rich, poor or of moderate income.

Statistics show that there are literally millions of people in this country today who are suffering from some form of developmental disability. It usually stems from an aberrant birth factor. Millions are confined to public institutions.

Every year in this country there are 250,000 babies born with congenital defects.

There are an estimated five million retarded children and adults in the United States alone today.

In San Mateo County there are 13,200 children with developmental disabilities.

Mental retardation accounts for 10,012. Cerebral Palsy for 76; substantially handicapping Epilepsy, 2,225; autism, 300. There is no figure available for the neurologically handicapped due to lack of available data. These figures come from the current Areawide Plan for Developmental Disabilities Services, developed by the Developmental Disabilities Council of San Mateo County. The figures are current for the fiscal year 1975-76.

If 13,200 children were stricken suddenly and disabled to some degree for life by an illness, an emergency situation would be declared and immediate attention focussed on the problem.

But these victims of developmental disability have joined the population of San Mateo County, several score at a time over a period of years.

That does not make the problem less overwhelming.

Where would a young couple turn to for help for their child and for themselves, to learn how to cope with such a tragedy?

Fortunately, there is a place which offers help and understanding in San Mateo County.

It is the Children's Health Home at 515 E. Poplar Ave. in San Mateo.

For many years the home primarily had served the needs of the retarded.

It has now greatly expanded the scope of its services to offer help to those with a wide variety of developmental disabilities.

Its waiting list grows annually.

The home needs more space to serve waiting disabled tots, children, young people and adults.

For that reason the Health Home Board of Directors has decided to go to the public this year to ask for help in creating a building fund of $656,000 so that the Home can be enlarged to serve hundreds more children over the years.

The fund drive has just been launched.

Board President Ruth Steiner explains the construction program will not only make more space available to accommodate the children with such massive problems, but to provide new programs. "The need is to help youngsters at the earliest possible age when best training results are achieved," Mrs. Steiner explained.

Marron Kendrick, chairman of the board of Schlage Lock Co., has accepted the responsibility and appointment as chairman of the drive, Mrs. Steiner reported.

Schlage Lock for many years has supported the Health Home and provided contracts for the older-aged retarded youth and adults through the Sheltered Workshop program.

Today the Children's Health Home serves almost 300 children, youth and adults, literally from several months to 70 years of age.

A pace-setter in San Mateo County, the private, nonprofit Center for Educational Development, began about 25 years ago as a preventorium for the care of children of tubercular parents.

Five years after it was opened, the home turned its attention to the educational, recreational, and vocational training of the mentally retarded.

Over recent years, it has enlarged its services to not only the retarded, but to those who are emotionally disturbed, neurologically handicapped, autistic or are the victims of cerebral palsy or epilepsy. It is the only such facility in this county.

"Where else could parents of children born with these problems go within their community for the long-term, professional help?" asks Mrs. Steiner. "These problems, can happen to any family, at any time," she adds. "The more we can help, the sooner we can work with a child to help overcome to the possible maximum the developmental disability, the better the opportunity that child has of a more normal life."

SUMMER FUN

The Bayshore Branch of Daly City Public Library held an awards-party Aug. 28 to mark the ending of the summer program. Participants entertained parents and guests with puppet plays, singing and Hawaiian dancing. Among the participants were (from left) Eleanor Salvador, Jacqueline Delmendo, Maurice Crumby, Roy Talorda and Estella Pabonan. The winner of the summer fun program this year was Talorda who accumulated 68 points.

Samuel Chandler

Here is a fact not to be overlooked. From the days of the first settler to the present, the area between San Bruno Mountain and the Pacific Ocean has been a mecca to a sterling American type, the homeowner.

The first two residents, Patric Brooks and Robert Thornton, came the same day to stake out homesteads. Brooks built his home in the hills near the area now called Serramonte and lived there for 50 years. Thornton built a house on the flat land near the San Francisco line and then went east to bring his wife to a home they never left.

For these men and those who followed them, making a home in the area they had chosen became the most important aspect of their lives. When they needed a school, one of them donated the land; when they were ready to build a public library, one man donated the land while others raised money for the building; when they saw the need for a public park, they drained Ike Knowles fishing pond and made Marshbanks Park. Like Wilfrid Blunt's old squire each of the settlers felt "himself his own sole's king upon his own sole ground."

OF SUCH MEN the historian, Frank M. Stanger, wrote, "It is said that the first settlers, before coming to Colma, had been mining the Coloma Valley where gold was first discovered. Not having been too successful there, they decided that their farms should be their gold mines, and that this should be their Coloma Valley."

In the tradition of these first homeowners the residents of Daly City's Westlake area were found by the editors of "Ladies Home Journal" to be a people who "desire to find a better way of life in self-owned houses."

Let the detractors of Daly City and Colma realize this. The homes of Old Daly City, Colma, Westlake, Serramonte and the other areas are not "little boxes" to the people who own them. The streets in front of the houses are not "cement bands that tie down suburbia." The whole area is not something "that slopped over from San Francisco" and the area's biggest city is not a "modern Hitler" or a hungry shark. Let us hear no more of such talk.

INSTEAD LET us hear quoted such statements as this from the Ladies Home Journal: ". . . an area of single family homes and has a reputation as a good place for a family to establish its first residence;" and this line: "Daly City is rich in ethnic and racial influences," and this: "an area of carefully tended homes and lawns extended almost to the edge of the Pacific cliffs . . ."

The section of land in North San Mateo County known as Daly City and Colma is now a land of proud people as it was long ago when a newspaper reporter found it to be "an important place with a number of comfortable homes."

DMV Will Serve as County Voter Registrar

Assemblyman Louis Papan, D-San Mateo, announced that starting Sept. 15, all Californians over the age of 18 will be able register to vote at any office of the Dept. of Motor Vehicles.

"In the past," Papan said, "the DMV has always provided voter registration before each general election, but now for the first time this service will be provided on a year round basis."

Papan praised DMV Director Herman Sillas, whose idea it was to provide this expanded service.

"Just last month Mr. Sillas extended the hours of the DMV offices to 6:30 p.m. on Thursdays," said Papan, "now again he is attempting to respond to the needs of the people by making government more accessible and convenient."

In Daly City the Dept. of Motor Vehicles has an office at 92nd St. and Sullivan.

Federal Spending

The General Accounting Office, which watches over federal spending for the Congress, recently reported that 269 federal projects piled up $57 billion in cost overruns. These projects totaled $133 billion, instead of $76 billion. Some of the projects will cost nearly ten times more than estimated.

SSF Reviews Mandated General Plan Elements

South San Francisco Planning Commissioners Tuesday night reviewed three mandated elements to the general plan, postponed action on two pending a meeting with the City Council Sept. 15 and recommended adoption of the third.

Commissioners recommended approval of the Scenic Road Element, while preferring to discuss further with the council the Seismic and Safety and Noise Elements, all required by state law.

The drafts of the Scenic Roads and Seismic and Safety Elements were prepared as joint efforts of the county and cities within the county.

The Scenic Roads Element provides for a proposed scenic road system throughout the county. In South San Francisco, Junipero Serra Freeway and Westborough Boulevard are so designated.

The Seismic and Safety Element, a two-volume document, discusses seismic and other hazards confronting each city and proposes ways to lessen risks associated with them.

There are some 169 different policies listed in the element and each city may choose to adopt any number it desires, or which most directly affect that particular city.

The city's Noise Element, prepared by consultant Maurice Garbell, produced the most discussion among the commissioners.

Of primary concern was noise related to San Francisco International Airport and a seeming lack of coordinated and concentrated joint (cities) effort to reduce it.

Garbell said once the element is adopted the next step is to set up a working abatement program.

Garbell also warned of the possible introduction of the Supersonic Transport (SST) into the Bay Area, depending on whether the aircraft obtains permission to land at New York's John F. Kennedy Airport.

According to Garbell, permission is being sought in New York to allow the SST to perform a banking angle turn which allegedly will diminish noise impact.

He said if such a turn is permitted it could be an "excuse to bring the SST here."

Garbell said he would like to see some sort of policy statement concerning the SST included in the South San Francisco Noise Element.

The consultant also suggested that while there be specific policy statements on noise mitigation, he wouldn't recommend that they be listed by priority.

Judge Rules Pacifica May Issue Social Service Funds

San Mateo County Superior Court Judge Robert D. Miller Tuesday ruled that Pacifica Finance Director John Pratt is authorized to issue warrants to various citywide social groups from a previous council-approved social services account.

The unique legal case was brought before the court in late June when then City Atty. John Sherman (who has resigned and been replaced by Gloria Scheid, former assistant city attorney in San Carlos) felt there was a need to clarify whether the monies were being expended as a "gift of public funds."

When the City Council adopted the fiscal 1974-75 budget it authorized the establishment of a social services account of $50,000. During the course of the year, the council okayed monies to be paid to various community groups to provide social services.

The groups include Friends to Teen-age Parents ($1,000), Pacifica Parent Advocates for Children ($5,073), Seniors in Action ($2,034), Bicentennial Committee ($10,000); Neighbors in Need ($3,000) and Pyramid Alternatives ($14,000).

To make sure these payments were legitimate, Sherman suggested a "test" case and the city Council subsequently sued Pratt, seeking an order to show cause why he should not disburse the funds. San Bruno attorney Joe Galligan was hired to handle Pratt's side of the case.

Revenue Bonds for SF Airport

Revenue bonds will be issued for the first time by San Francisco International Airport to finance $143 million worth of construction.

Airports Director William Dwyer said the bonds will be paid entirely out of operating revenues. All other bonds issued during the airport's history have been general obligation bonds against the property value of San Francisco, and have been paid out of the city's general tax funds.

Dwyer said the new revenue bonds will be used to finance the planned addition to the airport's central parking garage, construction of new boarding areas, reconstruction of taxiways and aircraft parking aprons.

Issuance of the bonds was approved by the San Francisco Airports Commission during their Aug. 19 meeting. Plans to market the bonds have not yet been determined, Dwyer said.

He said the revenue from these bonds would bring to $469 million, the amount spent on airport expansion since the growth program was approved by San Francisco's voters in 1967.

Humane Group Names Chief

The Peninsula Humane Society has named John B. Davis its chief executive, according to society president Louis R. Goldsmith.

Davis, a San Mateo resident, has 12 years of experience in heading organizations, and specializing in finance and in systems operations, Goldsmith says, as well as having been a Nevada rancher for several years.

Welfare City

According to a recent news article, there are more people on welfare in New York City than there are inhabitants in all but six of the nation's cities.

Program By D.C. Rec Nears an End

August 15 was a big day at Palisades Park, starting off with a cookout at noon and then with the Ken-L-Ration Dog Show getting under way at 1 p.m. The highlight of the show was the best costume category in which Marla Sherman's "Little Red Riding Pooch," Samantha and Virginia Cunningham's "Anna Mae" tied for first place.

Another "big" highlight came in the largest dog category where Dave Widtfeldt's "puppy," 8-month old Great Dane named Hercules, weighed in at 120 pounds and 42 inches from his head t the ground.

In the smallest dog competition Grace Manson's Chihauhau Lady, took first. Denise Piiwaa's Primo took two first in the Best Behaved and Best Trick categories. Virginia Cunningham's Anna and Marla Sherman's Samantha each collected another first, Anna for the Funniest Dog and Samantha for the Best Looking Dog.

The judges had a hard time deciding on the "best of Show" between Primo and Anna. Anna won. Ribbons were awarded to all winners. Special thanks were given head judge Glenn Lofton and head official Linda Jenkins.

TUESDAY WAS another special day. Palisades combined with OLM for a bicycle trip around Lake Merced, which included a stop at Fort Funston on the way back to lunch.

On Wednesday, after another cookout, there was a treasure hunt — for a box of goodies that some pirates must have hidden hundreds of years ago, or maybe the leader, Jim Liston, hid the night before. Anyway, after the treasure box was found in the sand lot, the goodies we e shared by all.

After the Bicentennial Fun Fair Thursday at Westlake Park the summer program closed.

THE DALY CITY Recreation Department's Ken-L-Ration Kid's Dog Show also was held at Serramonte High School.

Eleven entries were presented by their handlers and the judging was done by Recreation Leaders Tom Nuris and Steve Barros with the assistance of Ralph Walsh and Clyde Amaral.

Judged the "Most Intelligent" dog was "Zsa Zsa," the entry of Julie Rosenthal. Steve and Tom Daly's puppy "Baron" was awarded "Best Looking Dog" while "Gina," owned by Doug Dennis, was picked "Best Cocker Spaniel."

Bob Gradwohl's Irish setter, "Casey" received the "Best Behaved" award, while Mike and Tim Kuchac's New Zealand Longear, "Katen," was awarded "Best Costume." Clay Troxler's Labrador, "Duke," was determined the "Biggest Dog" and George Spiliotis' entry, "Jupiter" got the "Biggest Teeth" award.

Mike Scheffler entered two dogs, "Hans," a German shepherd which was picked "Best Trained," and Flea-Fee, a poodle which took the "Smallest Dog" award. Taking the "Meanest Dog" award was Nicky Ciolino's poodle, "Brandy," and awarded the "Best Dog of the Show" award was Robert Caliz's entry, an amazing animal simply named "Dog."

THE LAST WEEK of the summer at the Serramonte gym ended on a happy note, with a small party featuring cake and lemonade as refreshments. Earlier in the week, a "Hat Day Contest" was held and among the many entries, Nick Ciolino took first place with a white fur hat adorned with peacock feathers. Second place went to Mike Scheffler who sported a flashy orange shower cap with yellow flowers. The third place entry was a red, white and blue flowered flop hat worn by Tom Daly.

Assorted baseball caps, beanies and visors appeared in addition to a genuine bamboo weaved "Coolie" hat worn by Lyn Rosenthal and a knit Budweiser hat on the head of Dwayne Bonilla.

Clyde Amaral again won the 14-and-over ping-pong championship division with Bob Gradwohl second and Clay Troxler third. First in the 13-and-under division was Jane Wynn, followed by John Shannon and Doug Dennis.

Among others competing were Marty Sands, Steve Gomez, Robert Caliz, Chris Basa, Steve Daly and George Spiliotis.

The weekly Barbeque saw over 70 hot dogs going to the grill and as an added highlight after the barbeque finished, marshmallows were roasted over an open fire.

GELLERT PARK youngsters have had exciting clashes of two fine teams —— the Gellert Day Team, coached by Mike Scott, and the Gellert Night team, coached by Al Taberez.

The first of the doubleheader was won by the Day squad, 22-8.

For the Day squad, Jerry Reason hit two homeruns; Cris Prugh, Russ Wondward, Wayne Pearl added one apiece. Steve Avila and Terry Ohman each had three hits. Ted Scott went "5 for 6" and made several outstanding plays in the field.

Hoping to Find Higher Intelligences

Hot on the Mysterious Trail of UFOs

By VERA GRAHAM

"Well, there's one theory to the effect that extra-terrestrial beings come flying over the Earth as a sort of tourist excursion — maybe like visting a zoo?"

Larry Johnson, 29, of 1125 Balclutha Drive, Foster City, grins when he says that.

He's only kidding.

Because he's very serious and very much a believer that this planet is visited by beings of higher intellect and from other universes.

Johnson is a field investigator for MUFON.

MUFON?

It stands for Mutual Unidentified Flying Object Network. It's international in scope. It has thousands of investigators who collect and collate data involving sightings of UFOs throughout the world. Many scientists, astronomers, engineers, pilots, physicists are among its members.

Larry Johnson is new in the field. He has only been at it since March. So far he has interrogated four people who have had experiences with strange objects in the air ranging from Susanville to Morgan Hill.

Johnson is also a pilot and a member of the Astronomical Society of the Pacific.

The purpose of MUFON is ultimately to find out what UFOs are. Not that they are, but what they are, explains Johnson.

The Mutual UFO Network, Inc. is a non-profit corporation made up of people seriously interested in resolving the mysteries of the UFO phenomenon — through science, research, education, publications and social aspect.

Johnson says MUFON investigators are convinced that rather than to fear contact with UFOs or their occupants, they should be viewed not only with wonder but with hope and anticipation that higher intelligences will help humanity control its acceleration in violence, war, disaster, crime.

Johnson and his family say they wouldn't be surprised if the pehnomenon became proven fact within two or three years.

Decorating the living room of the Johnson apartment are three large oil "space paintings," which depict imaginary exotic landscapes of planets unknown. The artist is Edward New of Sunnyvale.

Johnson first became interested in UFOs by reading science fiction. "From 'fancy' I went to fact," he says. His reading became serious and scientific in nature, and he finally joined MUFON.

Johnson's interest was backed by a visitor who told of a sighting in 1947. Interestingly, according to MUFON study the summer of 1947 brought an enormous number of UFO reports from all over the United States. Since then "sighting waves" often called "flap periods" by UFO researchers have dominated public attention in this country in the spring, 1950, summer, 1952, fall, 1954, France and Europe, fall, 1957, worldwide; spring, 1966 United States, and increases in late 1971, 1972 and the summer and fall of 1973.

Only earlier this month (on Aug. 10) a major sighting was reported in Gilroy. Most of that investigation was handled by the Northern California Director of MUFON Paul Cerny of Mountain View. The MUFON address is P.O. Box 1072 Mountain View, Calif., 94042.

Johnson himself talked to a young woman who reported a sighting in Morgan Hill on last March 13, the area is near a rocket firing experimental center.

The field investigator relates that a 15-year-old girl, Rhonda Ridge of Morgan Hill, was at home 1 p.m. on that day.

It may be recalled that was a period of extraordinary weather in which it began to snow. There were low-lying clouds over the hills near her home. The phenomenon of snow in March in Morgan Hill would be sufficient to draw anyone to the window. Miss Ridge, Johnson reports, said she was looking out at the snow fall when she suddenly became aware of a strange object hovering along the hillside. Johnson adds, other reports have put UFOs into sizes ranging from 25 to hundreds of feet, and sighting of "mother ships," "Carriers" from which small observation craft take off.

Miss Ridge described the rounded object which seemed to be made up of "two big metal plates," told of metal "bumps" on the body. She watched it transfixed for about 20 minutes, and from a distance of 275 to 300 yards.

At the same time a police officer's family reported that their car began stalling, and strange static interferred with radio reception. The young man driving the car described as an "A" student is an amateur radio operator and reported the static was unlike anything he had ever known.

MUFON investigators usually use tape recorders, and have special forms submitting a total of 37 questions to the UFO viewer. Also those questioned are asked to draw pictures of what they saw.

The long list of questions include size of the object, odors, electrical effects, color change, sound, "What do you think you saw? (check answer) — extraterrestrial device? UFO? Planet or star? Aircraft? Satellite or missile? Hoax? Other? (please specify.).

Johnson further relates the experience of a Campbell woman who was hunting with her husband and friends at Eagle Lake, just north of Susanville.

She was at the camper trailer in the evening and was looking toward an area where earlier she had seen a forest fire.

Suddenly, she told Johnson, she saw "three stars equidistant all in a row approaching toward me. It was at night. The middle one separated and moved very quickly toward me."

Johnson said the astrounded woman said the UFO came within 20 feet of her and was about 30 feet above ground. She estimated the size to be that of a large helicopter. It was round in shape with extensions from the craft toward to the ground which she described as "tendrils." Johnson said power heat waves could have made landing gear create that effect.

The woman's dog was grovelling at her feet in terror. "One of the most valid proofs of an appearance of a UFO is the reaction of any animal nearby," Johnson says. "Because the animal senses are so much more acute, than human, they apparently see, hear, feel things beyond our comprehension," the investigator explains.

A visitor to Johnson's home also tells of a personal experience in Downtown San Mateo, when he was working in a local store. He went outside at high noon behind a building and sat down on a bench for a breath of air. He leaned back against the building and glanced up at what he described as a "bluebird sky." Having just been released from the Navy, he had been trained in aerial observations. "What I saw was flying at incredible height and speed-beyond anything we had in the air at that time. It went in an absolutely straight line. I looked away, then spotted it again, when it vanished. It took eight seconds."

The UFO network is always interested in getting qualified investigators. They are admitted by invitation. Preferred are people with scientific backgrounds, ham radio operators with serious interst in UFOs.

MUFON puts out a monthly publication called "Skylook" at a cost of 75 cents a month or $8 a year's subscription. One of its writers answers the question, "What are UFOs?" The answer is . . . "We don't know. Some of the things reported as UFOs are balloons, hoaxes, airplanes, aerial gases and the like.

"The 'hard' sightings are yet to be explained: Daylight discs, objects with lighted 'portholes' objects simultaneously tracked visually and on radar at fantastic speeds objects which leave physical evidence after landing. These 'hard' cases cannot currently be explained by anything we now know. It is in this category of sightings that the serious UFO researcher is attempting to gather additional evidence."

Johnson adds that it makes no differences when the sighting occurred, MUFON wants reports. The more recent, the better, because the experience is fresher in the viewer's memory.

MUFON is headed nationally by Director Walter H. Andrus Jr. and its former headquarters in Quincy, Ill., have been moved to 103 Old Towne Road, Sequin, Tex., 78155.

MUFON collects not only sighting reports bu photos, provides photo analysis and four other research services. It in turn cooperates with Dr. J. Allen Hynek's Center for UFO Studies, which operations as a nationwide clearinghouse for reported sightings.

MUFON is a carefully structured organization with state directors, geographic divisions within the state with a state section director who correlates the work of the field investigators.

Johnson reports MUFON studies show that "UFO's exhibit a great variety of reported shapes. The most common is the disc shape, the next most frequent form reported is egg-shaped, or elliptical. Sometimes such details as antennae, legs, portholes and fins have been described. Some UFOs are self-luminous. Some have lights. Some emit an extremely strong light beam. In a few cases a form of propulsion exhaust is reported and described as similar to a jet trail, smoke, vapor or flame. Many, if not most UFOs move silently, (to the human ear). The recent rise in reported low-level and close approach sightings have led to accounts of accompanying sounds such as whirring, buzzing, chirping, humming.

And, it is reported, that the flight characteristics of UFO follow a pattern. They hover, accelerate or decelerate with unearthly speed, move on target with extraordinary acuracy, zig-zag, fly vertically, horizontally, flutter wobble.

Besides animal reaction to such occurrences, car motors, radio, TV sets, are affected. And where landing have been reported, there is often a scorched earth effect left behind.

And UFOs are curious, it appears. Then follow planes, trains, cars. There are enough airline pilots who have had strange experiences, but don't talk about it lest they be taken off the controls and considered out-of-control.

"More people are willing to talk about UFOs today, however, whereas, 20 or more years ago, even 10 years ago, those who sighted such objects were afraid to be laughed at or thought a nut," comments Johnson.

To help obtain the most accurate type of information, MUFON has just published a field investigator's handbook for which Johnson eagerly is waiting.

Nationally known consultants, most of whom have doctorates work as an advisory group to MUFON. An amateur radio network is in operation providing immediate voice communication between the national, state, and state-section directors. A master file is maintained and arranged chronologically by state, province and country.

Precise reports are forwarded to David R. Saunders, Ph.D., MUFON Consultant in Statistics at the University of Colorado in Boulder where the information becomes part of UFOCAT (how's that?). It's an acronym for Random-Access Disc-Pack Catalog of UFO Reports.

Don't be surprised if one of these days a 'flying saucer' lands on your doorstep and a friendly being knocks on the door and says, 'How-do-you-do, I am your neighbor from Aquariius. May I come in?'" "In which case call MUFON," adds Johnson.

Fire Strikes SSF Center

Arson has been labeled the cause of a fire Monday at the South San Francisco High School day care center, a fire department spokesman said.

Damage at the site, directly behind the high school, was estimated at $10,000 to the structure and $800 to the contents.

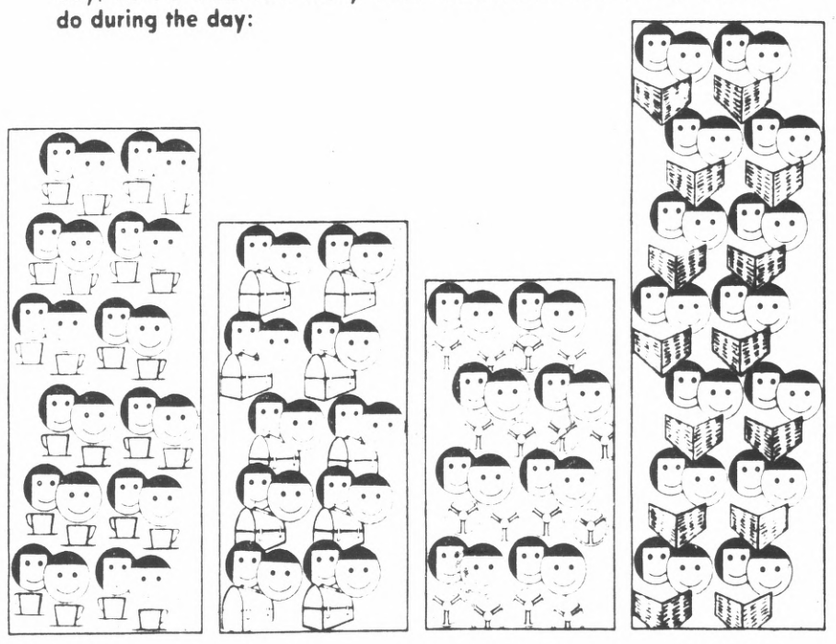
THE MILLION - MILE REACH

If you're a typical advertiser with a typical interest in how to reach the typical American, you should know . . . On a typical weekday, here's what this many adult Americans (18 and over) will do during the day:



88 Million Will Drink Coffee

77 Million Will Go To Work

70 Million Will Drive An Auto

100 Million Will Read A Newspaper

Those newspaper readers, on an average day, will open 84% of the pages of their newspapers—ENOUGH PAGES END-TO-END TO STRETCH ONE MILLION MILES!

More importantly, 81% of the ads in those newspapers can be expected to be seen by any given typical reader on an average day.

(Source: Audit and Surveys, Inc., for Newspaper Advertising Bureau)

You can't be in the coffee cup, or the lunch bucket or under the car seat . . . but you can be in the newspaper. Put your ad where Americans are . . . in the newspaper . . . every day.

Warning on New Ecology Laws

Progress toward cleaning up the environment in America can still be made despite this country's energy and economic problems, according to the first administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA).

William Ruckelshaus warned environmentalists Wednesday night against stiffening present laws, however, and said confrontation would not serve the public interest but would result in "bad" decisions.

Ruckelshaus, who now is in private law practice in Washington, D.C., noted that the energy crunch and need to cope with unemployment were "new realities" which have to be taken into account in efforts to clean up the environment.

"I don't believe that our energy and economic problems are the harbingers of the end of environmental progress," he said. "Nor do I believe in reacting to these problems by increasing the inflexibility of our approach to the environment as some unfortunately in congress, the executive agencies and even in the environmental movement are inclined to do," he added.

Ruckelshaus told an EPA-sponsored symposium at Stanford Research Institute (SRI) in Menlo Park that environmental problems cannot be separated out and addressed by themselves. Some naively believed this to be the case in the early days of the EPA when congress and the legislatures passed tough, demanding laws and the American people, at least preliminarily, expressed their willingness to bear the cost to clean up the environment, he said.

Ruckelshaus said the public now is ahead of congress in realizing that a blank check cannot be written to solve environmental problems. He called on the EPA to come to grips with the new public mood.

"Only limited resources are available to meet virtually unlimited social demands," he said. "It took us long gasoline lines to make us realize that the environment is not unrelated to other issues and that the social fabric of our society is like a balloon — if you push it in at one point it will bulge out at another."

Ruckelshaus said that pouring out large sums of money and setting tough but unrealistic deadlines for a single problem will not necessarily result in the public interest being served.

"The public in this country is much more aware of the interrelationship of our societal problems, including energy, the economy and the environment, than is our leadership, particularly the congress," he said.

Ruckelshaus blamed Watergate for contributing to a delay in solving environmental problems as well as eroding public confidence in government.

"We need to restore confidence in our public institutions," he said, "and the public interest can only be served if we minimize confrontation."

SRI is an independent, nonprofit organization that performs contract research for worldwide clients in business, industry and government.

Free Milk Program

Children without the price of a glass of milk will get it free in San Mateo County's schools, the office of the County Superintendent of Schools announces.

Eligibility is determined by monthly family gross income, as against family size.

A family of two (child and one parent) may receive free milk for the child in school if monthly gross income does not exceed $353. For a family of three, the figure is $438. It is $522 for four; $599 for five; $676 for six; $746 for seven and $816 for eight.

Above eight, the family income limit rises by $63 per added member.

Retention of I-380 Asked

The San Mateo County Transit District Wednesday recommended several changes in the joint Association of Bay Area Governments Metropolitan Transportation Commission Coastside plan.

Regarding the joint committee's suggestion that Freeway 380 between Junipero Serra Freeway and the City of Pacifica he scrapped, the transit district asked that the east-west highway link not be deleted.

Instead, it was suggested by the district that I-380 remain in the general regional plan for the Bay Area.

It also was recommended that MTC coordinate its activities with local transit districts to establish transit objectives.

This was interpreted as a means to dilute MTC's absolute authority over transit in the area.

The Coastside plan will be reviewed by the general ABAG membership on Sept. 3.

In other action, the district set Sept. 27 for a public hearing on some $2 million in Urban Mass Transportation Act funds to buy 35 buses for use in the county.

Paperwork

An Office of Management and Budget survey reveals the number of reports required of businesses — just trom certain federal agencies — includes 2,178 types of reports, taking businessmen the equivalent of 35.6 million manhours to fill them out.

Energy Outline Before SSF Chamber

Nuclear Need Told

By BOB PETERSON

Nuclear power may not be the total answer to this country's energy needs but it's use is more desirable than other known sources.

That's the view of Pacific Gas and Electric Co. public information specialist Christopher Newton, who spoke Wednesday noon to the South San Francisco Chamber of Commerce.

"There's no simple answer to our energy problems and nuclear is not the only answer," Newton said. "But nuclear power is preferable to the others in terms of cost and supply and the effects on environment and human health."

According to Newton, hydroelectric power is limited because it has littl growth or expansion ability. He said oil, the fuel used in most PG&E plants today, "is not a dandy option anymore," because it's "outrageously" expensive.

Newton conceded there's a lot of coal in the United States, but noted there are no commercial deposits in California. So PG&E would have to import coal from the Rocky Mountain area. He said the firm is buying a coal mine in Utah.

Newton said coal could not be the ultimate energy source, mainly because processing it results in tremendous environmental and human health problems.

Geothermal, the use of the earth's natural steam, is good as far as it goes, said Newton. The problem with this source, much like the hydroelectric, is limited availability.

George Stagnaro, chamber president and also head of South San Francisco Scavenger Co., suggested solid waste processing as a possible energy source.

Newton agreed it "would be a supplemental source" and said PG&E recently completed a study for a solid waste plant in the East Bay.

"The basic option today is either nuclear power or coal," Newton said. "In any rational decision in terms of money, environment and impact on human health, nuclear comes out like a sheep in wolf's clothing.

"Unfortunately, the subject (of nuclear power) is an emotional one," said Newton. "This makes rational discussion difficult, if not impossible. Polarization has to stop. We must compare risks against benefits."

Newton said nuclear power can be generated at 40 per cent less total cost, including the cost of the plant, than any other known energy source.

"These savings are not put in the basement of the utility," he added. "They are passed on to the rate payer."

According to Newton, a Stanford Research Institute study states that if nuclear power is not allowed, utility users will be paying $30 billion more from 1985 to the year 2000 for their electricity.

"Safety is the issue," said Newton. "A good safety record doesn't get much play. It's pretty boring news," he said in pointing out that "there has yet to be a radiation injury to anybody" in the 17 year history of some 55 commercial plants licensed to operate in the United States.

"It's not without risks," said Newton. "But the risks are clearly acceptable." He said the storing of small amounts of waste lost in processing is preferable to burning fossil fuels, shooting that waste up a smoke stack and eventually into a person's lungs.

Newton also said techniques of storing and handling have been studied and re-studied and re-studied. He said the often-aired concern that some "sickie" might steal enough nuclear material to go into his garage and make a bomb is a legitimate one, but one which must be put in proper perspective.

DISMANTLERS' DISPLAY

Reorganization Sought

School authorities faced with developing financial problems need to take a new look at district organization, says Dr. J. Russell Kent, county superintendent of schools.

Dr. Kent discussed the financial pressures growing in every school district at a Thursday meeting of the Governmental Research Council of San Mateo County at the Pacific Gas and Electric Company Auditorium in Belmont.

He said the state educational picture is changing.

Ultimately, he noted, districts may have to cut down on the number of schools and rely on support services, such as the type of public transit system being put into effect in San Mateo.

Staff reductions may be needed at all levels, he said.

He told the GRC assembly that it doesn't do much good to attempt to cut back on capital outlay or on materials supplied classes because 90 per cent of current school budgets goes for salaries or fringe benefits.

However, he admitted, there is a growing resistance to any salary or personnel cuts developing among employes, both on a basis of ratio philosophy and from a new activism evident among public employes all across the nation.

One of the important questions of this time, he said, is that of how wage determinations are to be made in the public sector.

As to solving this problem, Dr. Kent proposed:

- Public salaries should be determined in the market place and should be consistent with those of private employment in the area.
- The pupil-teacher ratio should be consistent with the type of teaching involved — with a high ratio of students in strictly mechanical or rote situations such as may develop in a typing or some physical education class, and a low ratio in a more subtle and demanding class.
- Teacher programming needs development all the way from teacher-training in the colleges to the final planning for classes in that volunteers and paraprofessionals would be integrated into the system. A master teacher, trained to utilize such assistance, could develop a close liaison with pupils in large classrooms while assistants worked with the teacher.

Dr. Kent said the ratio system too often is accepted as a generality. It is meaningless, he said, if a teacher, used to a large class, fails to change her methods when handling a small one.

"The essential thing in teaching, to reach not just the average but also the gifted and the slow learner, is to establish a one-to-one rapport with all the pupils," Dr. Kent said.

If a teacher aims her instruction at the median because of class size and continues that system even with reduced ratio, there is no advantage gained by the lower ratio, the superintendent added.

On the other hand, he said, a teacher assisted by paraprofessionals, and who knows how to use them, can establish the one-to-one effect even with a large class.

In his talk to the GRC, Dr. Kent said the current problems of school finance are inflation, declining enrollment, the large amount of budget going to employes and the difficulty of gaining an advantage in reducing other expenditures.

Mortgage Loan Rate Decline Eyed

National mortgage loan rates will decline in this year's fourth quarter, as will short-term interest rates, according to a forecast just issued by the B. J. Dillon Co., specialists in the national secondary mortgage market.

The forecast, included in the Rancho Santa Fe firm's current market report to more than 300 financial institutions across the nation, states: "Currently breaking news events and anticipated news developments over the next 30 days will cause further confusion and create additional upward pressure on interest rates."

"But," the report continues, "we foresee a turnaround in rates beginning within 30 days."

This will occur, the Dillon report said, because economic statistics now being published "must be viewed as history," reflecting seasonal consumer spending and the influx of tax-rebate dollars 60 days ago. The report's near-term prediction is that consumers will return to a mood of caution with a consequent rise in savings.

Meanwhile, refinancing of the federal deficit appears nearly complete, and this pressure will subside in the money market in the fourth quarter. With commercial loan demand at banks also at a low level, lower short-term rates seem inevitable, according to the Dillon analysis.

This will be reflected in lower home mortgage rates, which the report predicts will range from 8¾ to 9 per cent in the fourth quarter, in contrast to present top rates of 9½ per cent for prime home loans.

"Our estimates of national money rates are necessary to make forecasts in our area of prime concern, the national mortgage market," said Bernard J. Dillon, president of the company. "This latest forecast is contrary to many other opinions, but we believe it is accurate, as many of our past forecasts have been.

"We are concerned that our clients will overreact to current news, so we published this report to warn them against taking positions which might put them into an earnings crunch at the end of the year."

Dillon's firm is a broker and specialist in the secondary mortgage market, where financial institutions buy and sell first-mortgage loans. These exchanges equalize loan demand and funds available for mortgage lending in various parts of the nation.

With housing starts remaining at a low annual rate, and the approach of winter months when building ceases in much of the nation, the Dillon firm expects spirited bidding for available new construction loans in the latter part of this year. Such competition tends to drive down mortgage loan rates.

County Health Councils To Seek Designation

The Comprehensive Health Planning Councils of San Mateo, San Francisco and Marin Counties have taken the first step toward implementing the National Health Planning and Resources Development Act of 1974 in the three-county area.

Gene McDonald, president of the San Mateo County CHPC, said today that the CHPC agencies in the federally designated three-county Health Service Area intend to seek the Health System Agency (HSA) designation for comprehensive health planning in the area.

McDonald stated that the joint application will be submitted to the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare within the next four months.

Local and regional HSA transition coordinating committees are being established by the CHPC and charged with the responsibility of developing a report upon which the HSA application will be based.

The CHPC agencies are requesting county boards of supervisors, municipal government, medical societies and hospital groups to appoint representatives to the 12-member committees to work with consumer members in the application preparation process, McDonald said.

In San Mateo County, the CHPC will name seven consumer members, with the Board of Supervisors being requested to appoint two members, and the County Council of Mayors, the Hospital Administrators Association and the County Medical Society one member each.
